

Beacon-St. Louis Public Radio a National Model

St. Louis Public Radio and the St. Louis Beacon announced Thursday that they are moving ahead with their previously announced merger plan and that final action by the University of Missouri Board of Curators could come as soon as November.

The merger is thought to be the first of its kind in the nation – combining an NPR affiliate with an online daily news organization.