

Send in the Clowns: On the MSNBC-Mitt Romney flap

BY GEORGE SALAMON / During the last days of 2013, a controversy erupted on MSNBC when a panel of comedians on the Melissa Harris-Perry show poked fun at a photograph showing Mitt Romney's adopted African-American grandson sitting on the former presidential candidate's knee surrounded by the rest of his white family members.